ENON LOCAL NEWS.

Rev. Mitchell filled his regular appointment at Enon Saturday and Sunday.

We are glad to report Mr. D. M. Mauldin much improved since the last writing. He was a visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Mauldin, of Easley, one day last week.

Sure! the all-day singings we have are nice to attend and we are sure to meet with old acquaintances at them; to say nothing of the good music we listen to; and we all are aware of the fact that a ball game is a good life restorer, but let's not allow these things to keep us away from our own church. "Duty before pleasure."

Everybody send in the news from your own section and let's keep our little paper full of pep and make it the best little newsy on the globe.

Nobody's Beau.

COUNTY REUNION, PICKENS JUNE 3.

The Pickens chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy is planning a grand day for the "old soldiers" Friday, June 3, at Pickens and they invite all veterans with their families to be present.

Let us endeavor to make this a pleasant day for the members of the "thin gray line." Honor the few who survive and pay homage to the memory of those who have answered the great roll call.

Friends of the U. D. C. and the veterans should assist in any way that they can serve, bring a veteran who has no conveyance to get here, bring a bucket, speak a kind word—be here—smile.

A program will be arranged and music will be furnished by a band.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

A western evangelist makes a practice of painting religious lines on rocks and fences along public highways. One ran:

"What will you do when you die?"

Came an advertising man and painted under it:

"Use Delta Oil. Good for burns."

THE LAST SHOT OF THE CIVIL WAR.

Having read a piece by Mr. M. J. Welborn on the last shot of the Civil War, I would like to add a few words in regard to what I know about what happened on May 1st, 1865. I was born and raised on the ground where this last fight occurred and at this time I was about fifteen years old.

About 12:00 o'clock on May 1st, about five hundred infantry, composed of old men forty-five years old and boys of sixteen, came down what is known as the old Station road and stopped in a small patch of woods to eat dinner and rest. While they were resting, about seventy-five to a hundred Yankee cavalry came down the main Greenville road and ran into our men, and the firing started. It was stated that Mr. Frank Glaks was in command of the Yankees. None of our men were wounded and only one Yankee was shot through the breast, and was left at my father's. Thos. Moore, and he stayed with us for about seven weeks, when he was able to travel we sent him to Greenville.

The day after this fight, while the wounded soldier was at our house, a crowd of Butler's men came to kill the Yankee, but were persuaded by my father and mother to let him alone. Four horses were wounded during the fight on May 1st and fell in front of our gate, and we had them killed. This fight occurred about three miles from Piedmont on Thomas Moore's farm.

If any one desires any more facts about this fight I will be glad if they will write me and I will be glad to go over the ground and show them all about it.

N. B. Moore.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION MOVEMENT.

It is interesting to know that the women of America are taking an active part in pushing the Christian education movement which is being interpreted by protestant denominations of America. The women of Southern Methodism are inspired by a two-fold sentiment their interest in the work of their church towards aiding in the readjustment of world conditions on a high basis and from a sentiment that expressed their loyalty to the cherished ideals of their Southland. The South is passing through a testing time almost as critical as that of reconstruction days, though not so violent. Materialism is creeping into its fold and the only way to preserve the real culture and integrity of its early history is through Christian education. Having been released from her former social bondage by recent events and legislative enactment, Southern womanhood has entered into a new life. She has always been a silent force, but a potent force, nevertheless. Her training and influence gave to the world some of her greatest achievements. Now her life is full of opportunities and possibilities and they call for action for larger visions of service, which will bring in the years to come a renaissance greater than the mere founding of a new continent or the discovery of a new science.

The M. E. church, south, was among the first of protestant denominations to recognize the value of woman's ability and service, and the last general conference bestowed on her equal privileges of the church with its male members. On the Christian education movement, Mrs. J. H. McCoy, the widow of the late Bishop McCoy, a woman of unusual spiritual force, high culture and refinement, has been given a prominent place in the educational commission. She has a seat in all the conferences and her counsel is sought in shaping their plans.

Woman's work for Christian education was coincident with Christianity itself. Christianity begins at the mother's knee and it is in the home that the foundations of life are laid. The Christian home and the Christian school are the only sure foundations upon which a higher civilization can be built. No nation rises higher than its mothers and teachers.

GETS INJUNCTION AGAINST TELEPHONE COMPANY.

Judge Shipp Issues Order Restraining Telephone Company From Collecting Higher Rates and From Discontinuing Inter-town Service.

Upon complaint of F. A. Miller, of Hartsville, against the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company, Judge W. G. Shipp, of the Circuit Court, has issued an injunction and restraining order to the telephone company enjoining it from increasing the telephone rates for local services and from making any change in rate or inter-urban and rural services, heretofore furnished the plaintiff. The injunction, in effect, places the telephone service, with respect to the plaintiff on the same basis as the rates and services existing prior to April 1st, 1921.

The plaintiff alleges a violation of contract and asks judgment against the telephone company for $25,000.00 for alleged injury and damage. Plaintiff also asks permanent injunction restraining the telephone company from failing and refusing to render telephone service furnished it prior to April 1st, 1921.

A few years ago our government called for our boys. We sent them across the sea. Then they called for our money to help finance the war. We freely gave it also.

Now the church (our mother) calls for our boys and girls and some of our finance. We must be more loyal to this call, for the crowning day is coming by and by.

Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all other things necessary will be added unto you.

D. Pierce Hudson.
